iFlussio is an independent plant-specific maintenance system. The system is comprised of a motorized vehicle which navigates autonomously to a smart water source or sun exposure. Cloud integration enables data analysis and smart decision making, according to information received from sensors such as light sensors and a soil humidity sensor.